Otisteen Saup Smith
 “Too Sweet”

Otisteen Smith was born October 10, 1952, to the late Olden and Willie L. Smith in Americus, Sumter County, Georgia. He was a 1972 graduate of Americus High School and an active basketball player for Staley High School and Americus High School. One of the main things he loved more than sports was music and singing. He sang in several bands: The Impac, Mighty Night Band, Little Mickey, and the Sticks of Dynamite. He was a legend in his music, always singing in bands and wherever his fun style was in demand. He entertained the crowds with his singing and his James Brown style of dancing.

Otisteen passed away on April 13, 2022, at Phoebe Sumter Regional Hospital. He was preceded in death by one brother Olden Smith Jr. “Bro Bro”, his grandparents, Cora Smith of Andersonville, Georgia, Jennie Ingram and Leroy Ingram of Americus, Georgia, and his mother-in-law and father-in-law Sonny and Liza Goober of Americus, Georgia.

Otisteen is survived by his wife of fifty-one years, Elizabeth Goober Smith of Americus, Georgia; seven children: George Williams Goober, Daryl C. Goober, Tonya Goober Smith, Travis Goober (Felicia), Ricky Goober Smith (Faye) of Mitchell, County, Georgia, Naniskie (Chris), Lakesha Smith of New Jersey; two grandchildren he raised as his own: Tamarian Smith and Tyran Goober; nine siblings: Mae Mae Davis of Atlanta, Georgia, Leroy Smith (Annie R.), Jackie Haugabook (Eddie), Carolyn Ann Clinton Jackson and Gwendolyn and Harold Pope. Charles and Debra Burton, Tampa Florida, Willie Frank William, Bo Mansion (Bobby Lou) Americus, Georgia and Connie Judge of Atlanta, Georgia; twenty-six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren; several close friends: Clyde Anthony, Andrew Bailey and James Kelvin Burnam; aunts: Claria Pearl Ingram of Americus; Juanita Ingram of New York, and Mary Thomas of Ellaville, Georgia; uncle, Phillip Gooder of Americus, Georgia; other nieces, nephews, relatives and friends also survive.
